

RAMBLER'S NOTE BOOK.

WALKS AND TALKS ABOUT THE CITY.

Gathered and Compiled by One who Keeps Eyes and Ears Open for the Benefit of Springfield Readers—Notes of Interest to the Local, Social, Political, Literary and Artistic World—A Mad Democrat—Springfield Editor at Washington—The Cleveland Administration.

I was talking with a prominent Democrat yesterday on the result of the election in this city, and the reason for the Democratic defeat. To say that he was mad over the result would be a soft expression. As he spoke fire ran from his eyes and smoke from his nostrils.

"That Smith-Orb-Lin combination was the worst piece of black-bagging done in the political history of Springfield," said he. "It was a saloon ticket, the candidate for marshal engaged actively in the saloon business. Now look! Here we were pledged to the saloon interest, and to making the city government the creature of the saloon interests. The salooniers were raising big money to help buy themselves, through their candidates, into power. Is it any wonder the people rose in alarm against such a spectacle and voted solidly against it? Now how foolish all this was. Don't you see that no matter what candidate we had, the saloon element would have supported it anyhow, since, if they failed to vote the Democratic ticket, where would they have gone? Not to the Republican party surely, and not more than nine-tenths of them to the Prohibition party, at least. So you see we offered the ridiculous spectacle of catering to those who were ours already, instead of trying to run those who were doubtful. Then look at the moral effect of Zimmerman withdrawing from the ticket. It not only took the best man off the ticket, but it also showed that he would not allow his name on such a ticket, and thus gave sure presage of coming defeat. This left us with a blank for Solicitor. With a good Civil Service Reform Democratic candidate, of the Cleveland type, we would have won. As it was, we had not only no inducement to tempt the Independent or Republican voter from his party, but we succeeded in thoroughly disgusting the better element in our own party with our nominations. No wonder there was such a clean sweep. Then our blunder failed to accomplish much. The fact is, I know a number of men, both white and colored, who thoughtfully accepted all contributions from the booze fund, but when it came to voting, they voted the straight Republican ticket."

The New York Daily Sun, one of the world's great newspapers, has been placed on file, and shines for all at the Springfield public library.

The life of a policeman is not all as blissful dream of assisting pretty girls over muddy streets, etc. Police officers have their trials as well as ordinary mortals. Officer Jim Norton says the Klu Klux association of local toughs have tried their hand on him. He has received a number of letters, sent by some blood thirsty pirates, who inform him that his doom is sealed, that he might as well order his coffin, since they have made arrangements to see his valuable life on the first opportunity. Jim says he is not at all alarmed, since men who fight with pen and ink are not to be feared.

The quarrels of Halstead and McLean, the Cincinnati editors, is the most comical thing in Western journalism. McLean never mentions Halstead except as "an old crocodile," while Halstead refers to him as "the Little Boss" with no chance of becoming U. S. Senator from Ohio than a yellow dog."

It is stated that five Prohibition ballots cast in the Fifth ward last Monday had the name of O'Brien scratched out for Marshall and that of O'Brien substituted and also other trades; similar instances are reported from every ward in the city. The intelligent observer is constrained to wonder whether the votes were cast by Democrats, desirous of mixing their whiskey with water, or by Prohibitionists who wanted their water dashed with whiskey.

It is rumored that a sweeping change will be made in the music at the Episcopal church, commencing May 1. The choir will be dispensed with, and a preceptor substituted. The organist will be Miss Carr. Mr. Frank Prothero, the basso, will join the Second Presbyterian choir, and the other members will enter on other engagements.

A human chronicle rejoicing in the application of "Pop," on account of a wooden leg, was "stumped" the town in the interests of charity last week, and finally brought up in the station house with a bottle of whiskey concealed about his person. It is understood that his collections were to be devoted to the erection of a bronze monument to the Prohibition-Democrats of the Fifth ward.

It is said that Akron, Ohio, has one hundred and two (count them) separate manufacturing industries and that she is never afflicted with dull times (nor with modesty either, probably).

The Salvation Army is to be turned loose on this city this afternoon if their arrangements will turn out all right. The reception they will receive is only a matter of conjecture. In Dayton they were no noisy and indelicate that the people mobbed them, chased one of their detachments into the hall where they had been holding their meetings, and held them prisoners some little time, while bloodshed was imminent. Lively times may consequently be anticipated in Springfield.

"Shooting matches by telegraph are getting to be quite a feature in shooting circles," said a member of the Gun Club the other day. "The Springfield club has already shot matches with several clubs by telegraph. We defeated the Minneapolis club in that way the other day. The system is very successful and saves great expense. By use of the telegraph the clubs are in as close connection with each other as if shooting on the same grounds. The result of each round can be sent as soon as shot, or else the final result sent. Telegraphing the result of each round is of course more exciting where the telegraph office is near enough to make it practicable. Chance for tall lying? Certainly there is, if either club were mean enough to avail itself of it, but there is the highest honor about such affairs in all respectable clubs, and no cheating has ever been discovered."

Maple sugar is cheap and abundant at our grocers at 15 cents per pound. It is of excellent quality this year.

The universal verdict on Mr. W. S. Dent's career as constable is that the duties of the office were never better administered. He is spoken of for a prominent position on the police force if he would accept it.

Mr. Donny Thomas, the young artist, exhibits an exquisite life-size crayon portrait of Lillian Russell, the actress, in Barry's window. The picture exhibits extraordinary ability considering that Mr. Thomas has had no special art training and that he is only eighteen years old. He will no doubt make his mark in his art if he remains faithful to it.

Napoleon Bonaparte is on record with the remark that nothing is impossible. Why yes it is, Bony, old boy! It seems to me that for Jacoby Smith to be elected Mayor of Springfield, no matter how much industry he displays in getting himself nominated.

It is said that the ground in Springfield and vicinity is frozen yet to the depth of two feet.

Mr. Weather Prophet Drury should make a mark in his record opposite last Monday with a new and fill it with red ink. It was the coldest day on record—for the Democracy.

In Cleveland they understand how to secure music in their churches. For the Easter services at Woodlawn Avenue Presbyterian Church, they had the Bach choruses of seventy voices, supported by a full brass and string band, the whole under the baton of Prof. Alfred Arthur, who is the brother of Mr. T. S. Arthur, of this city.

"How are Clark County and Springfield represented in regard to Government employees?" I asked a gentleman well posted in Washington politics last week.

"There are not a great number of appointments from here," was the reply. "Let me see. Mr. Joseph Miller holds a clerkship in the Treasury. He was the young man who had his arm, unfortunately, blown off by a cannon in this city some years ago. Mr. Wilkinson, a brother-in-law of Mr. George Spencer, holds a position in the First Compulsory office. Mr. J. Guilford White held a position in the Auditor's office of the District of Columbia but resigned last week, and returned to this city to resume his law practice. St. Mast holds a position on the Capitol police force. He was appointed by the sergeant-at-arms of the House, and after that became a Democratic body he was retained by the sergeant-at-arms of the Senate. Mr. Maxwell, of this county, holds a position in the Indian bureau. Mr. Clarence Williams, son of O. B. Williams, of this city, was appointed by General Ketter to a cadetship in the naval academy at Annapolis. He has since graduated, and is now a second lieutenant in the navy, and is absent on cruise. Two young men named Sattus also hold clerical positions in some of the departments at Washington. Mr. John Boyd, of Enos, recently deceased, held a position for some years in the surgeon general's office. Besides these, there are several ladies either from this county or else appointed by Clark County influence."

Some years ago Messrs. Pringle and Johnson, W. R. Linn, E. S. and O. S. Kelly, Dr. J. H. Rodgers and Mr. Richard Rodgers bought up twenty-one sections of land in one of the most favorable parts of Kansas. The investment has proved most fortunate and the land has almost septupled in value. Last year a heavy offer by an English syndicate to buy the whole tract was refused. The owners are having a $6,000 bridge erected over the Arkansas river, which bridges their property, which will open up their land very much. They will also improve the land, and after selling off some small portions, will hold the rest indefinitely.

A number of local musicians have received circulars from a great musical artist in Hiram, O., who proposes to teach violin playing by mail. This opens up a grand field. Why cannot trombone playing be taught by telephone and bass drum playing by telegraph? Then if some genius could invent a system by which struggling geniuses on the cornet and banjo could do their practicing by telegraph, the sound not materializing nearer than the North Pole, the millennium would be close at hand.

J. Guilford White, the well known lawyer, has just returned from Washington, and talks very entertainingly on the present status of the Cleveland administration.

"Civic men in Washington," said he the other day, "are utterly unable to understand the true conditions and ultimate outcome of the Cleveland administration, and the future has never been more uncertain than at present. In the first place Cleveland seems to have made the men who stood by him and made his nomination in the Chicago Convention, Vilas and Manning being two who were rewarded by cabinet positions. Next, he has rewarded the men who contributed large sums of money to the Democratic campaign, such as Whitney, who got a cabinet office. Next we see the ring recognized which consists of Tilden, Randall and Thurman. We see this in the appointment of Dan Manning to the Treasury, and in the appointment of Miller in the Internal Revenue, instead of Carlisle's man, Thomson of Kentucky. Then we have the recognition of a clique of Pennsylvania politicians, prominently among them is Bill Scott, by the appointment of Hay to be First Assistant Postmaster General, instead of Constantine, who was John McLean's man. Randall is the 'big man' in the administration, and several of his friends have been rewarded. Then there are the mug-wumps, Henry Ward Beecher, the New York Times, Herald, and all that gang. They made the retention of Pearson, in the New York Postoffice, the great test case of the genuineness of Cleveland's civil service reform policy, and would like no next. Cleveland was forced to make the appointment to keep this class on the string and avoid a break with them. The classing which is going on in Democratic ranks at Cleveland is policy is not as his ex-gerent. It is an open secret that the Senate adjourned because the Republicans were not yet ready to come to the issue of resisting Cleveland's appointments, and the Democrats were afraid that they would be forced to break with Cleveland. Senator Beck and others are very much down on Cleveland's policy. The Democratic party is now waiting. If Cleveland discontinues his present policy in making appointments, and confines himself to rewarding Democratic partisans, the past will be forgiven; but if he goes on at his present rate a split is inevitable. There is talk that Cleveland is endeavoring to form a new Reform party which will come before the people as a distinct organization in the next campaign. There is a great deal of talk about the civil service examinations. All the questions are not practical, and many who have papers showing a good examination, make wretched clerks. Many civil service examinations have been applied in Southern cities lately, which has not been done heretofore. I think most of the Government clerks will be retained for a long time at least. There are many ways to shake them out, however. For instance, a large number of clerks will be dismissed from a department under pretense of economy. Shortly after a number of new appointments will be made of Democratic clerks to take the places of those dismissed. The delay in the departments are truly to be pitied. Some of them are almost losing their minds brooding over the question of their losing their places. They are fit for nothing but clerical work, and would be in a wretched position had they been dismissed. They can be made to believe that there is any honest intention of civil service reform, and of rewarding the best clerks on the part of the Democratic heads of Departments, and are correspondingly miserable. There is no large class of male department clerks who were lukewarm during the Presidential campaign and who are now rejoicing over the fact, since they believe it will secure their places now."

The many friends of Mr. Newton Sever, the popular basso will be pleased to learn that he will assume the position of organist of the First Presbyterian church, after tomorrow, which is Prof. Sykes' last Sunday. Mr. Sever has been long identified with the musical interests of this city, and will no doubt fill the duties of his new position successfully.

Mr. E. A. Williams, elected to the street commissionership by such a phenomenal majority, is an experienced hand at the business. He had the misfortune to lose a limb in a somewhat peculiar way while engaged in superintending work on the streets in Indianapolis. About three years ago, the force of men he employed for blasting down the old city hall exploded, and Williams ran up and put his foot on the fuse. So suddenly the charge went off and badly mangled Mr. Williams' foot and leg, necessitating amputation.

The Vocal Society have decided to give a public concert in May or June as was at one time contemplated. The Society is at work on the Elkhart, which will be given next fall in complete, and revised style. A quartet of solists including probably B. Brock and Miss Howe will be engaged, for the solo, and the Cincinnati Grand Orchestra for the instrumental portions of the concert. In giving such fine performance of the great classic works as the Messiah, in a word, the Society is entitled to the greatest praise for raising the standard of music in Springfield. One grand concert given in artistic fashion every year will do more for general musical advancement than a dozen indifferent ones. The Vocal Society are all probably giving up their jobs and are preparing to spend the summer in Europe and friends some time during the spring. It will take place in the G. A. R. hall and will consist of solos, duets, instrumental numbers and possible choruses from the Elkhart.

Springfield possesses her share of amusing children. The other day a Market street man tried in vain for a long time to shove his little girl to swallow a pill. The child refused for a long time, and the mother finally tried strategy. She carefully put the pill in a spoon and covered it up with jam, and then called the child. The latter came with eyes snapping with eagerness when she saw the jam, and lost no time in transcribing that little pill to her tongue. After she had eaten it she mother called her and said: "Did you eat up all your jam?" "Yes, mama," said the child, and then adding with an exquisitely tough expression, "and I didn't forget to spit out the seed, either." The mother gave it up as a bad job, and the child's mother was destined to be cured with pills.

Mrs. Mary Williams will fill Miss Driscoll's place in the First Presbyterian church choir until May. Miss Driscoll has been called home by the death of her mother. Mr. Samuel Burbank will take the position of bass in the choir.

Prof. S. Jerome Uhl, the artist formerly of this city and now in Europe, will return home in June. He has not made his plans yet for the future. Mrs. Uhl is very domestic and likes to live in good old America. With his boundless art treasures, of course, all in all to her husband, who desires to reside there permanently, though he has had some ideas of locating a studio in New York city. Prof. Uhl has completed all the commissions which he carried out with him, and the pictures will be brought to Springfield and placed on exhibition some time in the near future. Mr. Uhl has made immense progress while in Europe, and his many friends will be glad to welcome him back to Springfield.

"Constantine got a position at last," said one friend to another in the Arcade yesterday. "No," said the other, breathlessly, "you don't say so?" "Yes," said the other, "it's not in Washington, however, it's in Columbus." "What is the position?" asked the second. "Keeping files off the State House eagle," said the first, with a chuckle.

A little youngster on West Pleasant street goes up to the crib where his little six-weeks-old brother is lying and gets off the following powerful admonition: "Now you boy, you be a good girl."

Tribute to Gen. Grant.

The following are the resolutions of condolence passed by the Lexington M. E. Conference, in session here, April 7, 1885, to General Grant and family:

Whereas, General Ulysses S. Grant, the matchless commander, the invincible patriot and exalted philanthropist, whose labors for his country and the world have been so long and so noble, and whose indomitable courage and heroic firmness saved it from dismemberment in the day of its dire necessity, is now lying upon the bed of affliction and rapidly approaching the end of his noble career; and

Whereas, The simple trust that General Grant reposes in his God and his invocation of the blessings of the Deity upon his family and his household affords an example wor by of consideration, and is a sign of the holy religion over skepticism and unbelief, which is widely prevalent in these times; therefore,

Resolved, That this Conference hereby records its prayerful sympathy with General Grant and his family in their affliction, and commends them to the tender mercies of that God upon whom they are now so faithfully and beautifully leaning.

Resolved, That the deep concern manifested in our sublime words and deeds of General Grant in behalf of the great population of this country, exhibits a degree of philanthropy by which demands, and will ever secure to him, the gratitude of the thankful of the race.

MARSHALL W. TAYLOR, President of the Conference.

J. L. PERKINS, Secretary.

G. A. SISK, HENRY W. TATE, and others in behalf of the Conference.

Mr. J. McGreevy, the popular agent of the N. Y. P. O. west of the city, was married yesterday, at Dayton, to Miss Cora Rockfield, a highly esteemed young lady of that city. The happy event was wholly unknown to a few of their most intimate friends. Among those present from this city were: Mr. R. N. Slickewitz, George W. Stutzman, Mrs. Laura H. Wilson, Miss Susan Cook, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Rockfield. We understand that "Mae" furnished a house ready for occupancy several days in advance without the "eye of suspicion" resting upon him, completely outwitting the "curious."

SPRINGFIELD FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Points From the Annual Report of Chief Engineer Simpson—More House Houses Needed.

Chief Fire Engineer E. W. Simpson presented to Council Friday night his annual report on the Fire Department for the year ending March 31, 1885. The running expenses of the department for the year ending March 31, 1885, were $14,063.37; expenses out of Fire Engine and Building Fund, $1,983.08; total, $16,046.45. During the period embraced in the report there were 65 alarms of fire. Loss by fires, $13,885; insurance on same, $12,080—making net loss by fire $213.92. The Chief states that, owing to the rapid growth of the city and recent extension of city limits by which one thousand structures, including some of our largest manufacturing concerns, were brought in, there is necessity for greater fire protection and recommend the erection of three new house houses, located, respectively, on Lagoda avenue, near the I. B. & W. Railroad crossing, on South Yellow Springs street, and on Chestnut avenue, North Side. The outfit of machinery in charge of the department is detailed; also the manual force, as follows: One chief engineer, one assistant chief, one superintendent of fire telegraph, five captains and twenty-one firemen; total, twenty-nine men. The three steamers in use before the construction of water works remain on hand, two in good condition. They were used once during the year, at the burning of the Clason house.

The department has 5,330 feet of hose, of which 550 feet of leather and 1,280 feet of rubber hose is reported in bad condition. A recommendation is submitted that two additional fire alarm boxes be ordered and put up, in connection with the fire telegraph system, one at Mulberry and Shaffer streets, and one on the corner of Elm street and Sherman avenue. The necessity is also urged of changing the two line circuit and repeater now in use into a four line.

The chief has been careful to see that the thirty-nine fire engines in use before the water works were constructed are kept filled with water so that they may be ready for service in case of fire, in event of any possible accident to the water works.

The Market House Matter.

The status of the new market house enterprise since the popular expression in its favor at Monday's election, is not so generally understood as it might be, since having the impression that authority is yet to be given for the issue of bonds. Section four, of the special act under which the election was held, reads: "A majority of the electors voting at said election shall vote in favor of the issuing of said bonds, then the Council may issue and sell the same, and use the proceeds as herein provided, but not otherwise." As no provision is made in the bill for purchase of a site, Market square seems to be the only one available to the city, unless there is further legislation authorizing the purchase of a site. There is a considerable and considerable growing sentiment, not in any private interests either, against such occupation of the square, which is the only open space the city has centrally located, and certainly needed for various purposes that might be mentioned as it now is fully as much as a market house. Some imaginative have already fixed up a very pretty plan, which is to locate the proposed government building—when we get it—on the northwest corner, and the new city building on the southeast corner of High and Market streets. The plan also provides in terms that the new building shall contain a market house, city offices—Mayor's court and police headquarters—public library rooms and "such other office rooms as Council may direct," which would render the vicinity of the postoffice, etc., a very appropriate place for city buildings. There is nothing excepting this matter of location now in the way of practical steps being taken, preparation of plans and issue of bonds. The act provides that these shall be: "In denominations not less than five hundred dollars, payable at any time within four years from date of their issue, at a rate of interest not exceeding six per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually, at the office of the city treasurer; and shall be issued, advertised and sold according to law, but not at less than their par value."

The Fourth Ward Inwardness.

On election day, Monday last, a man named Leonard presented his ballot at the Fourth ward polls, and his papers being called for, produced documents recognized at a glance by the judges as of the well known "John M. Pugh" fraudulent issue, which appear from time to time, and which have been proven a fraud over and over again. The vote was refused and Leonard left, but presently came back under convoy of C. W. Constantine, by whose order and upon exhibition of the same set of papers he again presented his ballot, Constantine threatening the judges openly with personal suits if they dared to refuse it, and starting in to usurp the prerogative of the judges in examining the witness. When reminded that he was exceeding his authority in so doing he bristled up and replied: "I guess I am Mayor of this city yet, sir," but met the responses that, Mayor or no Mayor, he had no authority to examine that witness—and he didn't. Leonard swore his papers were issued to him at Columbus on a certain date in October, 1888, and after a long examination the ballot was received. A letter written to the Probate Judge of Franklin county brought the reply last evening that the records—and all such matters are kept on record—laid to show any papers is and on the date named, to any such party. It is now under consideration to institute legal proceedings in this case, at least.

Assessors' Meeting.

The ward and township assessors elected last Monday met at the county commissioners' room yesterday morning at 10 o'clock for consultation and to receive outlays of books and blanks read for work next week. They were addressed by Auditor Series, who fully explained their duties under the law. C. R. Myers, elected from the Sixth ward, having declined to serve on account of other business, the auditor will appoint somebody to the vacancy next Tuesday, the law requiring that a certain number of days must pass. The assessors from the townships came together upon the following rates: Fat stock, $1 to $5 per hundred; cattle, stock, $3.50; noes, fat stock, $3.50; sheep, fat, $1; stock $2 to $3; hogs, 15 cents per hundred; corn, 40 cents; oats, 30 cents; hay, $5 to $7 per ton; potatoes, 40 cents per bushel; wool, 25 cents per pound.

Mr. R. P. Galan, a prominent lawyer of Birmingham, N. Y., on his way home from the New Orleans Exposition, spent a few days with friends in this city.

Job's Jump.

The papers have noted the removal under circumstances, from Catawba, this county, of Squire Wm. Jones, leaving a large circle of sadly mourning friends and creditors. Yesterday morning County Clerk J. H. Rabbits received the following, postmarked at Hartford City, Indiana, April 10:

Mr. Harry Rabbits:—I hereby and herewith tender my resignation as Justice of the Peace of Pleasant township, Clark county, State of Ohio, to take effect at once. To Harry Rabbits, Clerk of Courts, Clark county, State of Ohio.

WILLIAM JONES.

Strictly formal, but at the same time rather superfluous. The same amount of resignation doesn't exist among William's numerous creditors.

Mrs. Reely was arrested on Clifton street for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Annie and Chas. Mitchell were arrested at their house at the rear of Dr. Campbell's stable, in the alley between Limestone and Market streets. The trouble originated in an accusation made by Dr. Hoffman's hired man, charging Annie with stealing an oil-can. This was too much for Annie's sensitive feelings, and she repudiated the charge with extreme emphasis. Finally Dr. Campbell, who was shocked at the vulgarity of the scene, sent for the patrol wagon to remove the fair damsel. Before this could be accomplished, however, considerable more wind was wasted by the three women who were in the house, and Charley also blew off considerable steam. Matters were at last settled by the pair getting into the wagon and going to the station house, where Annie was charged with disorderly conduct and Charley with using profane language.

Twenty-eight ladies and gentlemen from this city attended the Scottish rite reception in Dayton Friday evening. Over 250 persons sat down to the superb banquet, and in many particulars the affair was the most elaborate and splendid of the series held. Many other cities outside of Dayton were represented. A full band furnished the music, and a portion of the work to one degree was rendered with all the paraphernalia, in grand style.

Mr. Constantine having some cases set for hearing in Mayor's Court Tuesday afternoon, Mayor Goodenough will not assume the duties of the office until Wednesday next. City Solicitor Summers took his seat as such at the meeting of Council Friday evening. His office is in Commercial building, Limestone street.

The Clifton avenue church expects to receive several persons to its fellowship today. At the forenoon service. An interesting meeting will be enjoyed and the members of the congregation are urged to be present to participate in the ceremony. All will be welcomed on this occasion.

Carrie B. Binkley, by her attorney, J. K. Mower, has brought suit for divorce from Daniel F. Binkley, who is accused of adultery, failure to provide, etc. He is an insurance agent. Plaintiff further asks custody of child and allowance of reasonable alimony.

Married: At the United Brethren parsonage, Lagoda, Thursday evening, April 9, at 8 o'clock, Mr. Charles Bunker and Miss Mary J. Goodenough, by Rev. S. A. McCorkle. Many friends tender hearty congratulations.

Among other Ohio inspectors in the postal service, J. J. Hanna has been requested to send in his resignation to make way for a Democrat. Mr. Hanna is remembered as a former Mayor of Springfield.

An election for Elders will be held at the First Presbyterian church, Wednesday evening next, at 7:30 o'clock. Sunday school anniversary Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the same church.

It is to be hoped that the Salvation Army people will capture the outposts of the enemy that guard the street corners today. If they do this they will be entitled to the thanks of the public.
